Robert E. Lee invaded the North twice: first in 1862 during the Maryland Campaign that culminated in the Battle of Antietam; and again during the Pennsylvania Campaign in 1863 that ended with the retreat from Gettysburg. This fast-moving presentation will compare and contrast the two invasions, including why Lee invaded, the size and condition of the two armies, their organizations, logistical issues, the routes to the battlefields, the battles, a comparison of the casualties, and the aftermath.

Brad Gottfried earned a Ph.D. in Zoology and served as a college educator for over 40 years, rising to the presidency of two colleges before he retired in 2017. He has written 24 books on the Civil War. He is best known for his map studies and Gettysburg-related books. Several of his books have won awards, such as the Army Historical Foundation's Distinguished Writing Award (2023), and his Brigades of Gettysburg is cited as a "New York Times Best Seller." Brad is a Gettysburg Licensed Town Guide and an Antietam Licensed Battlefield Guide.
